Chapel Hill Expert Survey—Trend File

1999 – 2019

August 2022
Version 1.3

The dataset 1999–2019_dataset_means.dta combines data from the 1999, 2002, 2006, 2010, 2014 and 2019 Chapel Hill Expert Surveys.¹ In the 1999 survey, 116 experts estimated positioning of 143 political parties in the 14 largest EU member states (EU-14). For 2002, 250 experts evaluated 171 parties in the EU-14 countries plus 10 prospective EU members. For 2006, 235 experts provided evaluations on 227 political parties on European integration in all EU member states (24) apart from Luxembourg, Cyprus, and Malta. For the 2010 survey, 343 experts evaluated 237 political parties on European integration, ideology, and issue positions in all EU member states, except for Luxembourg, Cyprus and Malta. For the 2014 survey, 337 experts evaluated 268 parties in all EU countries, including Luxembourg, Malta and Cyprus. For the 2019 survey, 421 experts evaluated 277 parties in all EU countries, including Luxembourg, Malta and Cyprus.²

In papers or publications utilizing this dataset, we ask users to refer to the dataset as the 1999–2019 Chapel Hill Expert Survey trend file and cite documentation as follows:

Jolly, Seth, Ryan Bakker, Liesbet Hooghe, Gary Marks, Jonathan Polk, Jan Rovny, Marco Steenbergen, and Milada Anna Vachudova. 2022. “Chapel Hill Expert Survey Trend File, 1999-2019.” Electoral Studies 75 (February). <https://doi.org/10.1016/j.electstud.2021.102420>³

To facilitate comparison across time we made party id, party labels, and variable names for identical questions consistent across datasets. Where questions are not identical we use different variable names across datasets. This dataset can also be merged with the Marks/Steenbergen/Ray dataset of expert evaluations of party positions, which covers the EU-14 countries from 1984 – 1996 (also available on <http://chesdata.eu>). Together these datasets enable the user to create a time series from 1984 to 2019 tracking the position, salience of and internal dissent on European integration for national political parties in the EU-14.

¹The dataset is available on the website (chesdata.eu) in Stata (.dta) and .csv formats. The survey dates are as follows: 1999 survey (Spring/Summer 2000), 2002 survey (September 2002—April 2003), 2006 survey (Summer 2007), 2010 survey (January 2011—March 2011), 2014 survey (December 2014—February 2015), and the 2019 survey (February 2020—May 2020).

²The experts in the 2014 and 2019 survey also evaluated parties in 3 non-EU countries: Norway, Switzerland, and Turkey. Please consult the 2014 and 2019 codebook and survey data on chesdata.eu for those countries. The team also surveyed candidate countries (Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Kosovo, Macedonia, Montenegro, Serbia) and the Ukraine. That survey is also available on chesdata.eu.

³In the 1.1 version, we corrected a minor coding error in the salience measure to make them comparable across years. In the 1.2 version, we corrected seat shares for some elections. In 1.3, we updated 2019 Polish vote shares to reflect coalition shares. Email info@chesdata.eu for the details.

VOTE = vote percentage received by the party in the national election most prior to YEAR.⁵

SEAT = seat share of the party in the national election most prior to YEAR.⁶

ELECTIONYEAR = year for national election most prior to YEAR, used to calculate VOTE and SEAT.⁷

EPVOTE = vote percentage received by the party in the European Parliament election most prior to YEAR.⁸

FAMILY = classification was initially based on Hix and Lord (1997), except that we place confessional and agrarian parties in separate categories. Family association for parties in Central/Eastern Europe was based initially on Derksen classification (now incorporated in Wikipedia), triangulated by a) membership or affiliation with international and EU party associations, and b) self-identification. We update family codings based on ideological shifts or organizational changes.⁹

Family ID	Family	Dummies for Party Families

⁵All party vote shares collected from the ParlGov database (<http://www.parl.gov.org>) and checked with wikipedia.org. The citation is Holger Döring and Philip Manow. 2012. “Parliament and government composition database (ParlGov): An infrastructure for empirical information on parties, elections and governments in modern democracies.” Version 12/10 – 15 (October). Parties that either did not run in the most recent election or did not receive enough votes to pass the threshold are coded as missing (.). When vote information is not available for separate coalition partners, vote percentage is calculated on the basis of the proportion of seats held by the coalition partner in parliament.

⁶All party seat shares collected from the ParlGov database (<http://www.parl.gov.org>). Parties that either did not run in the most recent election or did not receive enough votes to pass the threshold are coded as missing (.).

⁷An exception to the prior election rule is Latvia in 2010. The Latvian party system underwent numerous changes in 2010 and 2011 during the time of the survey. The CHES survey focused on the 2011 parties and election in Latvia.

⁸Common EP election years are 1999 (used for 1999 CHES and 2002 CHES), 2004 (for 2006 CHES), 2009 (for 2010 CHES), 2014 (for 2014 CHES) and 2019 (for 2019 CHES). All EP party vote shares collected from the ParlGov database (<http://www.parl.gov.org>). Parties that either did not run in the most recent election or did not receive enough votes to pass the threshold are coded as missing (.).

⁹Note: We endeavor to carefully classify all parties; however, some parties are easier to categorize than others. For instance, some parties fit into two or more categories (e.g., at various times, Lega Nord can be classified as Radical Right and Regionalist). CHES users are advised to review family codings to ensure they match their own research goals and definitions.

Only asked in 2014

Entries for the next three questions are a summary of the expert responses to the Most Important Issue question. Each expert ranked one issue as the most important, one issue as the second most important, and one issue as the third most important issue. In this dataset, we aggregate these responses using a simple ordinal voting technique. For each party, an issue received 10 points if it is ranked as the #1 issue by an expert, 5 points if it is ranked #2 by an expert, and 1 point if it is ranked #3 by an expert. After adding together the issue scores for all the experts for each individual party, we ranked each issue by the total number of points, yielding the MIP_ONE, MIP_TWO, and MIP_THREE variables. As the table shows, some parties have ties for the most important issue questions, which reflects the experts' uncertainty or disagreement on particular parties.¹¹

MIP_ONE = most important issue for the party over the course of YEAR.

MIP_TWO = second most important issue for the party over the course of YEAR.

MIP_THREE = third most important issue for the party over the course of YEAR.

Last updated: August 2, 2022.

¹¹Note that this expert MIP question must be summarized differently than standard position scores, where we use the mean, because the variable is not ordered in any substantively meaningful way. Survey users are welcome to investigate the raw MIP data in the expert-level dataset, or to handle ties as they see fit.
